Chicago's New Tammany
The Fords Must Rough It
A Useful "Don't"
"Royalty" Wedding

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

MORE IMPORTANT than the [illegible] of William Hale Thompson or the rise of Anton J. Cermak in Chicago's mayoralty fight is the fact pointed out by Michael W. Straus that a "Chicago Tammany" is now in power.

Cermak, whom friends describe as a determined, able man, has been boss of Chicago Democrats. Many believe his organization is in power to stay and may make of Illinois a Democratic state.

This interests the Republican party for 1932.

A huge petrified elephant, with tusks six feet long, a foot and a half thick, is found in the bed of a dry lake on an almost inaccessible mountain in the Mexican state of Nayarit.

Much bigger than any we know, this Mexican monster lived and died far from Washington. But unless Washington's Republican elephant manages to do something between now and 1932 about unemployment, nationwide crime, racketeering, etc., it may find itself much like its petrified Mexican brother.

A HENRY FORD balance sheet, filed in Massachusetts, shows that Ford in 1930 made only $44,469,923, compared with $81,797,861 in 1929. The United States Ford company has at most, three stockholders—Mr. Ford, Mrs. Ford and their son, Edsel Ford. The drop in profits probably does not worry them particularly. Three could easily rough it on $44,460,823 a year and even put by something for a rainy day.

DEAN LOOMIS of New York university offers among "don'ts" to parents this excellent one:

"Don't urge your children to go to college because you went, or because you didn't, or because the youngster's chums are going, or because it is the avenue to a sorority, or fraternity, or to athletic success."

College life hurts as often as it helps, and oftener. Better for a young man to spend four years at work, realizing his shortcomings, than more or less study acquiring an exaggerated idea of his own importance.

YESTERDAY in the cathedral of Palmero, Sicily, Prince Henri, son of the Duke of Guise, pretender to the French throne, married Princess Isabelle of Orleans and Braganza.

Both are descendants of the last King of France. Much royalty attended the wedding, the ceremony performed by Cardinal Lavitrano.

The Vatican objected to the presence of two excommunicated French editors, Leon Daudet and Charles Maurres, but objection was withdrawn when it appeared that the two were there as working newspaper men, not as guests.

As far as royalty goes, that wedding was like marrying a Confederate five-dollar bill to one of the $1,000 Kerensky bonds.

They are a nice young couple, 23 and 18 years old, but so far as the throne of France is concerned, they are much out of date as the Confederate money or the Russian bond.

France is republican and will remain republican. Boubons that "never learn anything and never forget anything" will never come back.

PROFESSIONAL MEN, WOMEN AT SAWYER MEET

One Hundred and Fifty Attend "Boost Marion" Conference at White Oaks.

ALL URGE COOPERATION

Five Hundred Questionnaires on City Problems Returned to Head of Movement.

There is nothing radically wrong with Marion. This city is doing as well as can be expected considering nationwide conditions.

This was pointed out by a majority of the seven speakers at a meeting of 150 Marion professional men and women at White Oaks farm last night in the third of a series of boost Marion meetings sponsored by a civic group of 32 headed by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer.

Nearly all speakers, all of them professional men or women however, urged a greater spirit of cooperation among groups and individuals, and made a plea for capable leadership with enthusiastic followers in civic movements of every nature.

Llewellyn Speaks

J. W. Llewellyn, insurance man, asserted Marion needs a live wire Chamber of Commerce and called for more aggressive work on the part of the local chamber.

He also called for cooperation with all governmental units and pointed to the need of unity of purpose in community affairs.

In a talk preceding that of Llewellyn, Asa Queen, undertaker, and president of the Marion Kiwanis club, declared that "the challenge today is for men capable of leading to take their place." If capable leadership is furnished, and every Marionite is made more interested in the welfare of the city, there will be plenty of followers in any civic movement, he predicted. He asked for an organized effort in Marion that "knows where it's going."

"Marion is bound to move forward," R. T. Lewis, realtor, declared, in a talk that immediately followed Llewellyn's. He advocated a city manager form of government for Marion.

Miss Mary Pleasant, superintendent of Marion City hospital, told the professional people she had found Marion a pleasant city to live in during the five years she has spent here.

"Don't Knock—Boost"

"Don't knock the city or hunt out its little imperfections. Boost it," she urged. "If we would practice the Golden Rule more, Marion would be a better place for us all," she said.

Other speakers included Dr. C. J. Altmaier, who declared Marion doctors should strive for a higher plane of medical ethics. Hoke Don-

MERCURY MAY DROP AS RAIN APPROACHES

Midddle West Swelters in Pre-Season Heat Wave; 74 Here.

Real summer weather which has prevailed here the first five days may end Friday. Rain and cooler weather is promised for this district by the weatherman.

While the mercury was climbing to a high of 74 degrees here yesterday many sections of the middle west were sweltering in a pre-season heat wave, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Although the temperature reached a high mark here yesterday the mark was far short of the record established April 11 last year when the thermometer registered 91.

Last night the thermometer dropped to 53. High a year ago was 64 and the low 27.

Chicago's temperature soared to 80 degrees yesterday, the warmest April 8 since weather records have been kept, according to the Associated Press. Six children, lured into the streets by the first real summer-time temperature of the year, were killed by automobiles.

From Minnesota and North Dakota came reports that dust storms added to the discomfort of mid-summer heat. Omaha, Nebr., had an 88, which exceeded by one degree the previous April 8 heat record, set in 1887.

A spring heat wave that led to one prostration and established temperature records at several cities was the talk today in plains states which were dotted by snowdrifts 10 days ago.

CLEVELAND GETS FIGHT

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., April 9—The Max Schmeling-Young Stribling 15-round heavyweight championship bout was announced today as "all set" to be held in Cleveland's new municipal stadium either the night of July 3, or the afternoon of July 4. George Bender, manager of the stadium, said the terms were agreed upon last night.

G. O. P. House Margin Cut to One by Death

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9—The death today of Nicholas Longworth narrowed to one the Republican majority in the new house of representatives.

It emphasized the significance of his valedictory statement as speaker to the adjourning seventy-first congress that it was "only an all-wise Providence who is going to determine which of the two major parties will organize the next house."

And in narrowing the margin, the chances of Representative Garner, Democratic leader, Texas—"Jack" and warm personal friend to Longworth during their 26 years together in the house—for the speakership were advanced.

SUSPECT HELD IN N. Y. MURDER

Solution Likely in Death of Vivian Gordon, Slain on February 26.

MOTIVE WAS ROBBERY

Three Others Arrested in Connection with Case; All Deny Knowing Victim.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9—Vivian Gordon's murder was believed solved today.

The man charged with her murder was Harry Stein, otherwise unidentified in the cautious first announcement.

Three others are held as material witnesses, and a fifth, whose connection with the case was not made clear, was held for possessing a pistol and burglar tools. He said he formerly was a Canadian mounted policeman.

The motive for the murder, police said, was robbery.

By a coincident, all five men gave their place of birth as Russia.

Vivian Gordon was strangled and her body thrown into a thicket in Van Cortland park early on the morning of Feb. 26.

The arrests were made simultaneously last night in various parts of the city. Besides Stein, those arrested were: Samuel Greenhauer, alias Greenberg. Greenhear and "Greenie," 44, tailor; Morris (Doc) Levine, 36, electrician; David Butterman, 34, jobber; Jack Holdcroft, 29, former Canadian trooper.

Skeleton keys and a pistol were found in Holdcroft's room.

Stein, Levine and Greenhauer are three of the men mentioned in Vivian Gordon's diary—the diary in which she set down her affairs of love and blackmail and fear.

The three—Stein, Levine and Greenhauer—denied knowing the Gordon woman. They could not explain their names in her diary.

Two men and a woman identified Stein, police said, as having been in possession of a mink coat, a wristwatch, and a chain the day after the murder. Similar articles were stolen from Miss Gorden.

Another bit of evidence against Stein, police said, was the appearance in the Gordon diary of the names "Harry Sanders" and "Sol Lubin," both of which Stein admitted to police are names he has used as aliases.

Committee Kills Proposal for Referendum on Bill

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9 — The proposal for a referendum on an amendment to the state constitution to provide for the creation of county municipalities in counties over 300,000 population, had been definitely removed from further consideration of the general assembly today. The house county affairs committee killed it last night.

The house motor vehicles committee recommended passage of the Gillen senate bill providing a flat refund of three per cent on the gasoline tax to dealers for evaporation and shrinkage. The committee declined to act upon the initiated automobile drivers' license bill which probably will be allowed to die in the committee.

LAUNCH MOVE TO FORM STAFF FOR HOSPITAL

Dr. H. K. Mouser Named Chief by Marion Academy of Medicine.

WILL SELECT MEMBERS

Local Institution May Be Recognized by American College of Surgeons.

Recognition of the American College of Surgeons, an hoonr sought by practically every hospital in the country, may soon be given Marion City hospital, largely as a result of steps taken by heads of the institution and the Marion Academy of Medicine to organize a staff at the hospital.

To Name Staff

The Marion Academy of Medicine this week named Dr. H. K. Mouser chief of staff. Dr. Mouser will name the members of the staff and those chosen by him will be officially appointed to membership by Dr. T. E. Sonnanstine, safety director who heads the hospital administration.

It is with the welfare of the patient in mind that the American College of Surgeons fixed minimum requirements for recognition. It is with this sole object in view that doctors and heads of the hospital have strived to meet the exacting requirements of the college, doctors point out.

In an interview this morning, Dr. Mouser outlined the duties of a staff and its significance.

A staff of a hospital means a grouping of doctors having cases at that hospital into their several specialties. The staff is required to meet once a month for scientific advancement of the individuals on the staff.

To remain on the staff requires that the doctor must keep abreast with the advance of his profession and must give his patients excellent care. The whole idea and theme of a staff is to make the doctor more valuable to the patient.

Requirements High

In 1913 the American College of Surgeons saw the necessity of standardization in hospitals. The minimum requirements of the standard hospital, as specified by the college of surgeons, is 25 or more beds, an X-ray laboratory, complete clinical laboratory, complete method of keeping thorough records of cases treated, and a staff of qualified surgeons, internal med-

CERMAK POISED FOR CLEANUP OF CHICAGO

Warns Capone Had Better Live in Florida for Next Four Years.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 9—The Democratic broom which swept Anton J. Cermak in and William Hale Thompson out of the mayorship, was poised for action today.

Cermak's formal induction as Chicago's new World's fair mayor was the order of the day, with Cermak declaring he had promised to "clean out the city hall" and that he proposed to "lose no time in doing it."

"The bums who hang around the city hall are going to be swept right out," Cermak told interviewers yesterday. Almost simultaneously he told London newspaper men in a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation that his advice to Alphonse Capone was for him to stay out of Chicago for the next four years.

"Capone is under sentence here, you know, and I suggest that he stay in Florida," Cermak said.

Administration of the oath of office to Cermak had been tentatively set for Saturday, but completion of official canvass of Tuesday's voting in record time yesterday, made possible this formality today.

Federal Education Worker Is Speaker

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 9—Sectional reports and an address on schools by Miss Mary Stewart, assistant director of the federal board of education, were among activities today at the annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

There also was the possibility that the 1,000 delegates might vote on a resolution supporting the eighteenth amendment.

Education for marriage and parenthood was urged by Dr. Josephine L. Pierce, of Lima, former federation president.

They stood up awkwardly, and ...ed me hesitantly. Then they ...ed as if with one impulse, and ...their arms around me in a ...modic hug.

Sure to Please Them

"... Mums. Aw! Aunt Madge," ... were gone. I stood look... after them for a minute, won... as mothers inevitably do, ... much of the lesson would sink ... and then turned my attention to ... room in which I stood, and which had so excited the envy of my small son and his cousin.

I gave a satisfied little nod as I looked at it, and argued that Hank and Bill would be hard indeed to please if they did not like it. Roomy with a big old-fashioned bay window across one side, I had called upon Mr. Ticer and had a broad window seat built underneath the window with lids opening into dustproof compartments beneath where the boys could keep the thousand and one things which I knew they owned and to which they were steadily adding. Deep soft cushions exactly fitting the window seat were covered with a serviceable fabric guaranteed to stand the lounging of boys without warning them to keep their shoes away from it. But it held enough of reddish orange in its otherwise neutral covering to harmonize with the window draperies and glass curtains over which I had spent hours of study and consultation with Lillian, Dicky and Harry.

And now, as I looked at the thin mesh glass curtains of old gold, noticed the blending of the same color into the warm brown flecked with orange of the heavy silken valance and side draperies of the windows, saw the same reflected in the figured—but not floral—wall paper, the serviceable but good-looking rug, and the Chinese screen which was drawn across the corner occupied by their stationary wash bowl and towel rack. I smilingly remembered Harry Underwood's words when he had inspected the finished room with Lillian, Dicky and me.

The Room Problem Solved

"If those young pups don't like this," he said, "I'll take 'em out and drown 'em myself."

"But they will like it," I had replied, and I mentally echoed my assertion, as I continued my survey of the room.

The question of beds had been a puzzling one, for I knew that white or delicately tinted spreads and pillow cases would be impractical—rather impossible with the boys and their friends lounging upon the beds, as boys will do unless their mothers are more housekeepers than homekeepers. So I purchased two school cot beds of the type which are used in almost every preparatory school and college in the country, had extra-thick mattresses made for them, made up the beds with white sheets, blankets and pillow slips, and then covered each with a fitted cover reaching to the floor on all sides, and made of the same serviceable material which covered the window seat. A table, fitted bookshelves in the corners, two easy chairs and two straight ones, two reading lamps, and many serviceable cushions in orange and brown on window seat and bed completed the furnishings. The walls I purposely had left bare save for two English sporting prints which had hung in the upper hall and which both boys had admired. I had provided new frames for these and had hung them in good positions.

"Oh! Missis Graham!" Katie's breathless voice sounded outside the door. "You say to tell you ven eet 4 o'colck so you could get dose yellow flowers, but eet too hot for you in garden, so I bring dem."

Her arms were filled with yellow coreopsis, gaillardia in its wonderful tawny tintings, and splendid orange lilies, and the pleasure which is always mine in seeing flowers was heightened by the realization of my little maid's tender thoughtfulness for me.

"How wonderful of you, Katie!" I exclaimed. "I was just going down after them, for I am afraid I won't get them arranged before the boys get here."

The blast of a motor horn punctuated my sentences, and Katie and I stared at each other in dismay. The boys had arrived!

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

—BY JUDD M. LEWIS—

TOMORROW will be Friday and then Saturday, and when I looked out of the window this morning and let Jubilee down with one hand and scratched some of the fleas he had left me with the other hand, and I got to wondering where I would be if I had never been alive, and I felt so glad I was alive that I leaned so far out of the window to grin at Jubilee that I almost fell out. A fella that isn't alive can't go hunting frogs or snakes or mudturkles or make willow whistles or anything. Everybody ought to be glad they are alive.

When I had put on my short britches and went down and milked the dummed brutes and came in I asted my ant wasn't she glad she was alive, and she looked at me like she was chewing a pickle and said why should she be. I couldn't say anything. The next time I ast anyone anything I am going to think up the answer to it first. I was glad someone knocked just then and Miss Palmer came breezing in, smiling like she always is and said she had went to the store and thought she would drop in to see if we was all alive. I asted her if she was glad she was alive, and she grabbed me and kissed me and said, "You bet I am, you darling!" and I'll never ast her anything else

My unkle said, "If I ast you that will you treat me that way?" she said not today, and then she told him he was looking fine and when he swole up my mother said to him, "Show her your silk underware," and Miss Palmer clasped her hands together and said, "Oh, have you got silk underware? How adorable. Has it got ruffles on it? And ribbons? How perfectly lovely!" He jumped up and grabbed his hat and said it was time for him to go to work, and Miss Palmer said she thought that a long time ago. He was as red as everything when he went out and Miss Palmer sot down in his place and talked and had us all laughing. She said maybe if my unkle kept his job she would marry him and take him off my mother's hands. I don't know if she was spoofing or not. I wouldn't think a girl like her would marry a fella just because he has got silk underware. I asted her if she would live with us if she married him and she said she would whenever he got out of a job. My mother said that wouldn't be so bad.

Everyone loves Miss Palmer. She told me to bring the bunch to see her sometime, and then she went away, and my ant said she was a rattlebrain. My mother said, "You would say so." If I ever marry Yountsie I hope she will grow up to be like Miss Palmer. I suppose I will have to marry someone or milk cows all my life. Bunty's father and another man are going to paint the school brown. He had a ladder up this morning but it began to rain and he went away, and Rat went up on top of the school and we took the ladder away, and he stayed up in the rain for

CHAPTER 34

The Warden's Caller

I DASHED to the door and slamming it behind me, marched listling to the prison-gate.

"Come on, Bo!" growled the outer guard, standing by the open inner gate "Thought you was never coming."

I came on merrily, and, as a puzzled frown gathered on the face of the guard, I once more cleared up the situation with dispatch.

Lamb-like he marched before me to the Fort, and was quickly locked into that silent room.

I rushed back to the office, and found the bookkeeper still unconscious, and was greatly relieved to discover that his heart was still beating.

It was a most distasteful task to bind his hands behind him with his own suspenders and to gag him with his coat-sleeves.

When I stepped out of that office and locked the door behind me, I was in complete charge of that state prison, whereof, a moment later, the gates stood wide open. All I had to do, to be free, was to walk out of the prison, proceed to the prison garage, and, in the warden's own car, depart in peace—obviously a warder going about his lawful occasions in the prison-car.

But even one additional hour before the news was broadcast might make a difference between successful escape and a burst for freedom, inglorious and ineffective.

Thus thinking, I hurried across to the "administration block," and set about smashing the telephones and telegraphic instruments, and cutting every wire that entered the administrative building.

This work I bethought me that, ere borrowing his car, I might put the warden where he would do least harm for the longest time.

If I made off at once, leaving him peacefully slumbering, he would arise and stroll over to the prison at about 9 o'clock—and the hunt would be up.

If, however, I put him "under restraint," not only would the discovery be postponed, but, when it did arrive, the absence of the warden would inevitably increase the confusion.

Straight from the "administration block" I hurried, passed through the wide open gateways, and walked boldly up to the front door of the lonely house, close by, where, alone with his elderly Irish housekeeper, dwelt Warden O'Shaughnessy.

How to get into the house? I had not stopped to think of the bolted doors, nor of fastened windows. How was I to place the warden under arrest, if I couldn't get to him?

Another bright thought. Promptly I rang the front-door bell, and then flung a handful of gravel at hem bedroom window.

I will say the warden was prompt, and distinctly peevish.

"What in hell...." he began, ere he had well thrown up the window.

"Quick, warden!" I interrupted. "You're wanted acrarse at the prison...."

"What's up, then?" roared the warden.

"Don't roightly know, sorr," I replied, "but I was towld to run loike the divvle."

"Who are you?"

"Guard Mulligan, sorr...."

"I'll be there ..." snapped the warden, and, as, clad in a long overcoat and pajamas, he stepped out into the darkness, he felt the prod of an automatic.

"Up with them, quick!" I snapped. "And step back into the house."

Back went the warden, his hands above his head and a look of consternation on his face.

"Do exactly what I tell you—and make it snappy—for I can shoot you here and now, and make my getaway."

"Sure thing," drawled the warden. "Who are ...?"

"Don't talk. Who's in this house except you?"

"An old dame," replied the warden. "She won't do a thing to you."

"March to her room and lock her in."

With my pistol touching his back, the warden preceded me up the stairs, opened a door at the back of the house, took the key from the lock, closed and locked the door, and offered me the key.

"Pocket it, quick," I ordered, "and then raise your hands.. Walk in front of me to where the garage key is; then to the garage and unlock it."

The warden hung in doubt for the fraction of a minute, glancing at the pistol leveled at his stomach. I raised another and pointed it at his face.

"Jump to it, warden," I said. "You can die if you want to—but I'd like to spare your life."

He promptly turned about, and led the way downstairs and out of the house to the garage.

"Have you got the key?" I asked.

"No."

"Get it then, quick."

There isn't one

I laughed, even as I realized with some chagrin that I could have come straight to the garage and taken the car without this waste of precious minutes.

But then again I reflected, it was well worth the lost time to have the warden safely under lock and key, and so to postpone the hour of discovery and pursuit in the morning.

The warden threw open the garage door.

Fill the petrol tank and start the engine, I ordered standing well away from the warden and covering him with a pistol.

Satisfied that the tank was full, the engine running, and the car in readiness, I bade the warden march ahead of me into the prison.

A minute later, the warden was locked inside one of the strongest cells in the prison, and I was on my way to the prison gates, with a most useful collection of the prison keys. There was a better scheme than locking him with the rest. The longer it took them to find the warden, the longer it would be before pursuit was organized.

As I passed through the prison gates it occurred to me that, if I chose to do so, I could release every single convict in that jail.

I put the thought from me, however, realizing that it would be a wicked thing to turn loose hundreds of desperate criminals, with no money and no clothing other than their convict garb—save what they could procure by robbery and murder.

I thought of Rosemary, and my heart hardened to stone. Had any one of that gang been in the prison I would have shot him, in cold blood, and called that killing no murder, but an execution.

And then I thought of two convicts, neither of whom was any more a real criminal than was I myself—the boy called Kid Mailes and old Snipe Freen. I would give them their chance.

I dashed back and unlocked the door of old Snipe's cell.

As soon as the old chap's bewildered mind grasped the idea, he thanked me, with tears in his eyes.

"No, son," he said. "I'm tired. I wouldn't have a hope to keep straight, for the bulls wouldn't let me . . . No, God bless ye, son, and thank ye from the bottom of me heart, but go while the goin's good . . . And lock me in again for fear I'm tempted, or they think I'm in it and beat me up."

The old chap wrung my hand as though he would crush it.

Mailes was off his plank bed and into his clothes almost before my first sentence was completed.

"I'm with ye, Bo. Give us a gat and we'll shoot our way out."

"I'll do all the shooting that's to be done," I said, "and that's none. There's a boiler-suit or overalls, or something of the sort, on the wall of the warden's garage, so you'll have that much disguise."

"The warden's garage!" ejaculated the boy, as I locked the door of his cell behind us.

"Yes," I said, "we're going for a joy-ride in his car."

And in speechless amazement he followed me as I ran toward the prison gate.

AMERICAN LOOP LEADS IN SPRING GAMES

JUNIOR CIRCUIT WINS 27 OF 49 STARTS IN 'GRAPEFRUIT' LEAGUE

St. Louis Cards Only National Club Holding Advantage Over Rivals.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9—Someone with an analytical bent will please step forward and explain the comparatively weak showing National league clubs have made up to the present, in the spring exhibition circuit.

With the complete returns almost in, the senior organization has failed to compile anything like the winning record credited teams of the American league.

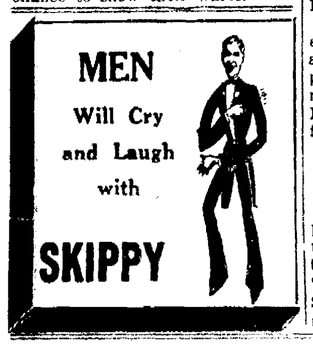
Not only did the American take a commanding lead over its rival circuit in inter-league argument during the past week, but it has a distinct advantage in competition since the exhibition grind began.

Without any help from the champion Philadelphia Athletics, the American league has bested the National in 27 out of 49 direct engagements. Only one National league team, St. Louis, has done better than break even.

The American league, in all games, has turned in 103 victories to 59 defeats, while the National has won 84 and dropped 79. Four National leaguers haven't been able to reach a .500 average, even while playing in the outlying districts.

Donie Bush's Chicago White Sox supplied the fanfire for the last week, winning six out of their seven engagements.

Jack Coombs, Duke baseball coach, through a sytsem of alternation, will give all youngsters a chance to show their wares.



North and South Golf Tourney in Second Round

By The Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9—George T. Dunlap of New York, whose 36-hole 145 won the medal by a ten-stroke margin, encountered H. A. Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., today in the second round of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

Playing under Princeton colors, Dunlap, intercollegiate champion, sailed through the first round yesterday with a 6 and 5 victory over H. J. Blue, of Pinehurst.

Tryon advanced by trimming R. R. Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, three and two.

Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J., defending champion, ousted P. R. Ellis of Bridgeport, Conn., four and three.

Homans was matched against Suffern Tailer of Newport, R. I., who advanced by drubbing E. L. Scofield, New York, two and one.

Richard S. Tufts, Pinehurst, was matched with J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown N. Y., and S. M. Perfs, Jr., Pittsburgh, with F. K. Wilson, York Harbor, Me., today.

Cleveland Almost Sure To Get Schmeling Fight

CLEVELAND, O., April 9—A flip of the pen was all that was needed today to give Cleveland iron-clad assurance of its selection as the site of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight championship bout.

It was understood a contract for rental of the municipal stadium at a fee of $25,000 would be signed today by William Saxe, representing the Illinois Madison Square Garden corporation, and George Bender, stadium manager.

The 15-round go will be held either the night of July 3, or the afternoon of July 4. The date is expected to be formally announced next Wednesday at South Bend, Ind., where Schmeling is scheduled for an exhibition.

CAMPOLO DUE TODAY

By International News Service

NEW YORK, April 9—Vic Campolo, the giant Argentine, will arrive here next week, it was learned today, to sign for his fight against Tommy Loughran in Madison Square Garden on May 15. Loughran has agreed to the date.

This Spring, Knit-tex is really a "luxury" coat. Its soft, rich fabric looks exactly like the fine woolens of England and Scotland. OHIO WESLEYAN NINE TO OPEN BASEBALL SEASON WITH O. S. U.

Inexperienced Men To Dot Lineup of Bishops in Contest Saturday.

DELAWARE, O., April 9—Four sophomores seem likely to be included on the Ohio Wesleyan university baseball team which will open its season against Ohio State university here Saturday. Coach Fritz Mackey is considered likely to start a sophomore battery supported by sophomores at shortstop and third base and possibly by one second year outfielder.

George Munson, Cincinnati, sophomore, seems sure to catch the opening game with Elmer Reger, New Philadelphia, senior who has been behind the bat for the Bishops the past two seasons, performing in felt field. James Vezie, Fredericktown, Pa., who earned his letter as varsity pitcher last year is the only experienced twirler. Two sophomore pitchers, Wilmer Dickerson, Adena, and John Schnierle, Massillon, will get to show their wares also for Coach Mackey is of the opinion that none of his pitchers is ready for a full nine innings of action.

The infield will probably include Randall Leyshon, Girard, first base; Charles Elkins, Lakewood, second base; Kenneth Burrell, Akron, shortstop, and Charles Worcester, Blue Ash, or Harry King, East Cleveland, third base.

In addition to Reger in left field, the outfield will include James McElhaney, Portsmouth, and a third player to be selected from a group of four, all of whom have shown to advantage. Two varsity lettermen, Phelps Hand, Washington, D. C., and John Farr, Worcester, Mass., are battling for the position against Russell Nein, Middletown, a sophomore, and Lowell Van Deusen, Kent.

LOUGHRAN ACCEPTS

Philadelphian Ready To Sign for Match with Jack Sharkey.

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 9—Fried and Fishman, Philadelphia promoters, announced today Tommy Loughran, former world's light heavyweight champion, had accepted their terms to meet Jack Sharkey in a 10-round bout at the municipal stadium here on June 23.

Maurice Fishman, secretary-treasurer of the arena corporation, plans to go to Boston tonight to confer with Jack Sharkey and his manager, Johnny Buckley, concerning the bout. He quoted Joe Smith, manager of Loughran, as saying Loughran was anxious for another bout with the Boston Gob and that he favored the stadium as the site.

Municipal stadium, scene of the first Dempsey-Tunney championship battle, accommodates more than 100,000 persons.

Among Uncle Sam's Hopes

ELLSWORTH VINES--PASADENA'S FUTURE TENNIS GREAT!
DAVIS CUP DARK HORSES
SPORT BUG
CLIFF SUTTER OF TULANE --THE SOUTH'S MOST PROMISING DAVIS CUP PROSPECT.
4-9 BURNLEY/D

France has won the Davis Cup, most prized international trophy in tennis, for four successive years, during each of which the United States has striven desperately but in vain to revive the victorious years of Bill Tilden and Company. And ol' Uncle is still seeking avidly to develop another superstar or two from a large array of promising but otherwise undistinguished young talent which shines on many courts throughout the nation but which fails, as a rule, when tilting against such French masters as Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste.

This year, Uncle Sam entertained Borotra a sthe big feature of our indoor season and the beaming Basque emerged with chief honors after defeating some of our most skilled youthful players. Two of his French associates (of the so-called "younger school") were not successful, their U. S. opponents disposing of them decisively. And Frank Shields did beat Borotra in their match.

With the U. S. scheduled to play Mexico in the Davis cup preliminaries on May 1, our tennis powers are already puzzling over the problem of picking the team with a special eye to what the candidates have done during the winter season.

Down south, and elsewhere, Cliff Sutter, former Tulane ace, has been playing brilliantly and Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, has been winning along the Pacific coast. Berkeley Bell did exceptionally well in the eastern indoor matches which ultimately resulted in victory for Borotra.

John Hope Doeg, national champion, Sidney B. Wood, Francis X. Shields, Gregory Mangin and others of their ilk, including George M. Lott, Jr., Wilmer Allison, and John Van Ryn (Davis Cup vets, that trio, despite their youth) are all in line for team selection by Uncle Sam. The next few weeks should tell.

Sport bugs like to guess about such things, so this one takes a stab at our 1931 Davis Cup team make-up with this speculative lob: Doeg, Lott, Sutter and Shields. With "Sid" Wood, Vines, Mangin, and Bell individually liable to displace any one of the quartet mentioned in that fancied "Big Four."

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

End Your Piles Without Salves or Cutting

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak,, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation,, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that Henney & Cooper says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back.—Adv.

"Oh Yes," Says Gleason, "Baseball is Different Now Than in 90's"

PHILADELPHIA—Baseball, in the words of gruff and grizzled Bill (Kid) Gleason, "ain't what it uster be."

The one-time pitcher and second baseman, now head coach for the Athletics, says old-fashioned baseball is gone forever.

"They can't bring back the old kind of game, not the way we fellows played it," he declared as he put the squad through its practice paces.

"No, sir-ee. Know how I used to play second base? I'd let 'em slide onto the bag, then kick 'em off and slap the ball down on their conks. Yes sir. Kick 'em right off the bag. That's the way we put 'em out.

"Take the pitchers. You never see a pitcher nowadays running in front of a man when he's going to second or third, do you? Well, we did it when I was pitching. Any time a man tried to steal I'd run over in front of him and slow him up. If a pitcher did that today folks would think he was crazy.

"Another thing I used to do. I'd tell the catcher not to throw the ball to anybody but me when a runner was going down. I'd back off the rubber after a pitch and yell for the ball. Many a man I tagged out at second when I was pitching. But the way I liked best to put 'em out was after I became a second baseman—just booted 'em in the pants and set 'em off the base."

Gleason recalls the season in the early 90's when, as a pitcher with the Phillies, he won 36 games.

"A year or so later," he went on, "they moved the box back further from the plate and that put a lot of pitchers out of business. They either lost their control or couldn't last out a game

"At the old distance a fellow could pitch every other day, if he was tough. When I won 36 games for the Phillies I pitched every other day—had to. We had only 15 men. The reason the hurlers can't work so often now is because of the increased pitching distance."

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT LA PALINA

La Palina is America's largest selling high-grade cigar. It is mild, mellow, fragrant. Its imported Java Wrapper brings out the full richness of the choice blended filler tobaccos. Every La Palina is sealed in an individual cellophane humidor which keeps it as fresh as the day it was born. It is the favorite of young men who are just beginning to smoke cigars and veterans who have tried them all.

These are important facts about La Palina. But, after all, no mere words can do justice to this great cigar. Try two or three today and see if you don't get enough inspiration out of the sheer pleasure of smoking a La Palina to write a winning slogan.

STILL FAVORITES

U. P. Correspondents Pick A's to Win Third Pennant.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 9—The Philadelphia Athletics, winners of two consecutive world championships, are heavy favorites to win the American league pennant for the third successive year, a poll of the eight United Press correspondents attached to the various teams in the junior loop revealed today.

Five of the eight correspondents who have been with their respective clubs since the start of the training season, picked the Athletics for first place while the other three picked Connie Mack's protegee's for the runner-up position.

Here are the way the clubs will finish in the opinion of the correspondents:

Philadelphia, Washington, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Boston.

This, save that the St. Louis Browns finished ahead of Chicago, is exactly the way the teams stood at the close of the 1930 race.

The 75-yard low hurdle record at the Illinois relays has stood since 1920. Johnson of Michigan set it—eight seconds.

VILLAGE LOSES IN COURT SUIT

Action Restrains Marengo Council from Paying Repair Contracts.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, April 9—The district appellate court has granted a perpetual injunction restraining the Marengo village council from paying three claims of Louis Dehmer for street work in the village.

The suit was brought by a taxpayer, J. E. Campbell, against the village officials when it was discovered that the contract for the repairs to the street had been divided into three separate contracts in order that the sum in each one would be low enough that the council would not be compelled to advertise for bids.

Bids Illegal

Campbell won in the common pleas court and the case was carried to the appellate court and the injunction was made perpetual, the court claiming that the transaction was illegal and that dividing the work into three separate contracts was mere subterfuge.

Judges Clyde C. Sherick, Charles C. Lemert and Charles W. Montgomery held that as no bids had been advertised for no payments could be made.

The three contracts were let in 1926. Each was for street repair and each specified $350 as the contract price. Two of the contracts were for parts of the same street. Every municipality is required by law to advertise for bids when contract prices go over $500.

Contractor Loses

In this case the appellate court held that the three contracts were all one and that the contractor cannot be paid the $984 which was the amount of the bill presented to the village by the contractor whose headquarters are in Tiffin.

He incurs the penalty because it was his duty to see that the contracts complied with the law.

HEAR MOTION ON APRIL 13

Set Date for Arguments for Return of Shop Case to Bucyrus.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, April 9—Monday, April 13, has been set as the date for hearing on the motion filed Tuesday by City Solicitor Charles F. Schaber seeking vacation of the order issued by Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl last week permitting the transfer of the injunction suit of the city against the New York Central railroad to the federal court at Cleveland.

The suit, which seeks to prevent the removal of the local repair shops from the city, was taken entirely out of the jurisdiction of the local court by the order of transfer.

Toughest of Old Hang-On Cough Go

And Go Swiftly or Money Back—65 Cents a Bottle.

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along toward the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the quickest destroyer of tough old weakening coughs is Bronchuline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchuline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months', diehard cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough that wears you down.

Ask Henney & Cooper or any wide-awake dealer anywhere for a 65 cent bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and three or four teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough—that's why results are guaranteed or money back—by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Experiences such as that of Mr. Harry T. Winchester, 31 Monument avenue, Charlestown, near Boston, are worth reading. He says: "An operation so weakened me that I could barely get about. Mr. Harry Winchester

And now Mrs. Annie Goedrich, 144 Broadway, Chelsea, near Boston, has this to say: "I had rheumatic fever and my limbs became so swollen that I was helpless. I suffered frightfully and could not turn in bed without aid. Konjola helped me from the first. Today I am up and about and free from pain and misery. The swelling has left my limbs. I cannot recommend Konjola enough."

STOCKS RALLY AFTER SLUMP

General Sag During Morning Session Largely Overcome in Afternoon Trading.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9—Professional operators had the stock market virtually to themselves today, but neither speculative faction found the field particularly lucrative.

Selling of rails impelled a general sag for a time during the morning, but many leading industrials and utilities resisted the downward movement, and after midday, the list showed signs of rallying. A firmer tone in the commodity markets and a better demand for bonds were steadying influences. Trading was in slim volume, most of it originating with floor traders.

Early declines of 1 to 4 points were modified, and a few shares sold up a point or two, including General Motors, and such issues as Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, DuPont, McKeesport, St. Joseph lead and Bohn aluminum, the last named reaching a new peak for 1931. Beechnut packing rose 3. In rails, declines of 2 to 4 points appeared in Atchison, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Frisco preferred, all of which recorded new low prices. Radio was heavily sold for a time, losing more than a point, but later recovering. U. S. Steel recovered a 1 point loss, and Bethlehem turned upward after losing more than 2. Auburn fluctuated erratically, getting down 12 points at one time.

The rail equities were apparently sold on publication of the final tabulation of February earnings by class 1 carriers, indicating that income in the first two months of the year was at the annual rate of return on investment of only 1 9-10 per cent.

Among the first companies to report first quarter profit was Underwood Elliott Fisher, showing net of 94 cents a share, or about half the $1.89 cents a share earned in the first half of 1930.

Cream of Wheat reported 81 cents a share, a moderate reduction from the 88 cents reported a year ago.

Credit remained plentiful. Call money held at 1½ per cent. The treasury's offering of $275,000,000 in 1¾ per cent, eight month, certificates was promptly oversubscribed, and banks are now said to be looking about for longer term investments.

BUYING WAVE BOOSTS GRAINS

Prices Average Higher as European Demand Is Reported Stronger.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 9—Buying orders predominated in grains early today, and prices averaged higher. European demand was reported better, and attention focused largely on an official statement that stocks of wheat in all United States markets were diminishing, with the question of grain storage not a serious one. Opening ⅛@⅝ cents up, wheat afterward continued firm. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ higher, sagged temporarily, and then rallied.

Indications of a renewal of good export demand for North American wheat accompanied word of a decided falling off in Russian shipments. Only 80,000 bushels of Russian wheat were exported last week against total Black Sea shipments of 1,104,000 the week previous and 1,168,000 a year ago. Fresh export business in North American wheat was estimated at approximately 1,000,000 bushels, including some domestic winter. It was announced that No. 1 hard winter from the United States had been bought in Liverpool at 69¾ cents a bushel.

Corn and oats moved up with wheat and as a result of scantiness of corn receipts. Totals arrivals at the principal markets were only 175 cars, compared with 304 a week ago and 372 on the corresponding day last year. Dry weather complaints from Iowa were also a bullish factor.

Provisions were upheld by a rise in hog values.

HADDAM, Conn.—Cockaponsett state forest, the largest in Connecticut, sprawls over much of this town in the course of its 7,000 acres of fine timber, and is almost a complete delight to local residents. The only apparent flaw is the owners who sold the land to the state had failed to pay taxes to the amount of $178, a good-sized sum here. But the shortage has only been discovered and the town is asking the state to settle up.

veterans of his hostility—though he voted for the bonus.

Then came the new loans proposal. After he had announced his support, and another administration blast was threatened, newsmen went and asked him if he might be swayed.

"I don't think anything," replied Longworth, "could make me change my position." The loan bill passed over the President's veto.

Before he became speaker, he had established a reputation for hard hitting debate. He employed irony, however, rather than sarcasm. Likewise in his personal associations with political opponents, he let a sharp wit play—always with the softening shadow of humor.

For all his frankly elegant tastes, able some men to make ends meet, "Nick" kept his office comparatively simple. On its walls hung half a dozen honorary degrees which universities had conferred upon him. He was proud of them. So was he of the resolution of his state's legislature adopted congratulating him upon his election as speaker. It was framed on the wall. Literally scores of gavels plain and fancy, he kept out of sight.

Noted for Courtesy

"He was uniformly courteous to every member of the house," said one Democratic leader. "Any member, whether the humblest or the proudest, could approach Speaker Longworth, assured of fair consideration."

From his own ranks came the tribute: "On a secret ballot there would never have been opposition to Longworth's selection as speaker."

During his last illness his capitol office was besieged with anxious questions from his closest political friends to his bitterest political enemies—all personal admirers and well-wishers of the "gentleman from Ohio."

Any man can agree with a woman, but it seldom does any good.

It's their crooked ways that endear.

do so with profound gratitude to my colleagues, not so much for having elevated me to this, the greatest office in any legislative branch in any government of the world, but more for the evidence of the esteem and confidence you have had in me."

His gavel then adjourned the congress.

Was Scion of Wealth

Born with wealth and position on Nov. 5, 1869, in Cincinnati, his home ever since, Mr. Longworth, after attending Franklin school there, was graduated in 1891 from Harvard. He spent one year in Harvard Law school, then transferred to the Cincinnati law school, graduating from that institution in 1894.

Although admitted to the bar, he did not practice to any extent. Instead he became interested in civic affairs, and soon was immersed in politics in the city over which "Boss" Cox then held sway. Despite his persistent inclination to remain "regular" in political controversies, he declined to take dictation from the Cox organization and never was closely identified with it.

After serving on the Cincinnati school board, he was elected to the Ohio house of representatives. Later he became a member of the Ohio senate, serving there with Warren G. Harding and forming a friendship with the future president which continued until Mr. Harding's death.

Entered Congress at 33

Elected to the 58th congress in 1902, when only 33 years old, Mr. Longworth first served as a member of the foreign affairs committee. Later he was assigned to the ways and means committee, which has initial jurisdiction over tariff and revenue legislation. Applying himself to a close study of these problems, he was in a position to take an important part in the shaping of the country's tax policy.

He led in the fights against the Democratic Underwood tariff and for the Payne-Aldrich and post-war Fordney-McCumber schedules. He was speaker when the Hawley-Smoot act passed.

During his speakership, Mr. Longworth formed with Republican Leader Tilson and Chairman Snell of the rules committee a group termed the "triumvirate" by Republicans and Democrats alike. The rule of the triumvirate, irksome to some Republicans and labeled "tyrannical" by Democrats, led to a bi-partisan move for procedure more responsive to minority demands. Such revision was forecast for the next congress.

The triumvirate broke on one notable occasion in the last session when Mr. Longworth and Snell sided against President Hoover on the bill to increase loans on veterans' compensation certificates. Tilson led the President's unsuccesful effort to kill the bill, eventually passed over his veto.

As a young representative Mr. Longworth courted Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, and their wedding in the East Room of the White House on Feb. 17, 1906, was a brilliant affair, witnessed by nearly 1,000 notables. Congress adjourned for the day to do honor to the tenth White House bride and the representative from Ohio.

Mr. Longworth confided later to friends that he soon realized it was somewhat of a political handicap to be identified as the "son-in-law of 'T. R.'" and the "husband of Alice Roosevelt." Some of his political foes sought to attach the unofficial title of "Crown Prince" to young Longworth, but he succeeded by his genial manner in disarming them, and, with a realization that if he was to forge ahead in the political world, he must stand on his own feet, struck out to ring up accomplishments as a legislator on his own account.

Family ties gave way to party allegiance in the fall of 1912 when Mr. Longworth became a candidate for reelection. Seeking reelection to the presidency was William H. Taft, a fellow Cincinnatian, who was the Republican party candidate. Opposing him, in addition to the Democratic candidate, Woodrow Wilson, was Mr. Longworth's father-in-law, running on the Progressive ticket.

Stays With Party

With the encouragement of his wife, the daughter of Mr. Roosevelt, the Cincinnati representative declined to bolt his party, supported Mr. Taft and went down to defeat by a plurality of 101 votes at the hands of a Democrat who triumphed because the normal Republican vote was split between Mr. Longworth and a candidate endorsed by the Bull Moosers. Two years later, however, Mr. Longworth returned to congress for an uninterrupted stay which culminated in his successful candidacy for the speakership.

Few men serving in congress could boast of greater popularity among his colleagues than Mr. Longworth. He had political enemies, but they were relatively few in comparison with his wide circle of friends, which included men of all political complexions.

Even the LaFollette insurgents, whom he was instrumental in barring from party councils for their refusal to support the Republican ticket in 1924, agreed that "Nick," as he was known to his friends, was "a good fellow."

Although a consistent supporter of the administration, Mr. Longworth differed from both Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover on some issues, voting on one occasion for the soldiers' bonus which Mr. Coolidge vetoed.

Two weeks before house Republicans in February, 1925, selected him as their candidate for speaker by a vote of 140 to 85, a daughter, Paulina, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Longworth. She was their first child, and as evidence of the Ohio representative's popularity, he was cheered by his colleagues when he appeared on the floor.

The Longworth home is a beautiful estate at 2414 Grandin road, Cincinnati, Ohio. The Longworth fortune is one of the largest in southern Ohio and when not busy with his congressional duties Congressman Longworth devoted the greater part of his time and his legal talent to management of the estate.

HOLD UP PLANS FOR "REVOLT"

Insurgents in Ohio House Fail To Act on Proposal To Amend Rules.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9– Insurgent house Republicans were marking time after failing to push a proposal to amend the rules yesterday, the end of the three-day notice period.

Representative William W. Wier, Republican of Warren, abandoned immediate plans for altering rules so as to permit a majority of the house to advance any bill on the calendar at any time.

It was indicated, however, the notice which may be invoked at any time now, will be held as a threat over the house leaders in the event they fail to bring out the bill in which the insurgents are interested.

Representative Horace S. Keifer Republican of Springfield, yesterday called upon the house floor leaders to explain their plans for handling senate bills during the last two days without suspension of the rules.

Majority Leader Lester J. Abele, Republican of Cleveland, had no explanation to offer but advised the members that night meetings would start tomorrow. Minority Leader J. Freed Bittinger, Democrat of Ashland, pointed out to Keifer that the minority leader was not an official of the house and therefore had no say in the program.

Tax Changes Suggested

The preliminary plan for taxing intangible wealth to relieve the burden on real estate, as drawn up by the joint tax committee of the legislature, had produced the first requests for modification today.

Representative Willis D. Gradison, Republican of Hamilton county told the committee the proposed tax of five mills on the dollar on customers' credits held by brokers was not all-inclusive and could be evaded Gradison, himself in the brokerage business, said that banks in Ohio are running in real competition with the brokerage houses. A customer who buys stock from a broker on a margin account would be taxed but the same person, he claimed, could escape the tax by buying the stock through a bank, paying for part of it and giving a note for the rest.

The Ohio Manufacturers association also submitted a resolution to the committee, complaining about the plan of authorizing the state taxation commission to levy the assessments on such personal property as machinery and inventories. The resolution urged that this power be left with the county auditors.

Bill "Dead Again"

The Marshall congressional redistricting bill was dead a second time today, all because Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel, who presides over the senate, failed to recognize Majority Leader Earl R Lewis in time for him to change his vote from negative to affirmative

The redistricting measure, defeated last Monday night, was brought up for reconsideration, and the roll call showed a tie vote of 16 each before the result was announced. Senator Lewis, who had voted against the bill, sought to change his vote to the affirmative and thus pass the bill, but the lieutenant governor failed to recognize him and declared the bill lost It needed 17 votes to pass it.

Mimes Members Present Comedy-Drama at Ohio

Last Public Production of Season Is Phillip Barry's "You and I," Staged Under Direction of Mrs. Wilson B. Tway.

Phillip Barry's entertaining comedy-drama, "You and I" was staged by the Marion Mimes last night on the Ohio theater stage and will be repeated tonight. The three-act play was staged under the direction of Mrs. Wilson B. Tway.

"You and I" is the last public production of the playhouse group this season and is the type of play which the public enjoys.

Plays Piano Solos

The settings for the play were especially good. The first act, set with a new interior, was well dressed and the last two acts were set with regard to detail of furnishings.

In the intermissions Edgar Barnhart, a Mimes member, played several piano groups.

The story concerns two young lovers and their struggle with the same problem which confronted the boy's parents when they were engaged—a choice between a profession and a home and family.

Miss Jean De Wolfe and Charles Weil played the engaged couple and Mrs. Rodney B. Hume and W. W. Clarke portray the parents. Weil has the making of a successful creative architect. His father gave up a promising career as a painter to marry and go into business and at 43 makes a desperate effort to fulfill his art ambitions.

Miss DeWolfe who understands all that architecture means to her fiance, and knowing that in the year Clarke has retired from business to paint, the family fortunes have dwindled, offers to help finance his study of architecture abroad. Clarke finds a better solution to the young people's problems and makes it possible for them to go abroad where his son can study, without their knowledge of how the good fortune came about.

Sees Ad Only

Miss Elizabeth Crissinger as a maid with social ambitions has a good spot in the second act as Clarke's model for his first portrait. Paul Knappenberger, president of the firm in which Clarke has been employed, appreciates Clarke's portrait only as a good advertisement for the company's soap. Wilson B. Tway plays the role of the writer friend of Clarke who chose a career as a novelist instead of marriage and a home.

The first act is laid in the library of Clarke's country home in Westchester county, N. Y., and the successive acts are in the "studio-attic" of the home. The names of the characters are given below:

Miss DeWolfe, "Veronica Duane"; Mr. Weil, "Roderick White"; Mrs. Hume, "Nancy White"; Mr. Clarke, "Maitland White"; Miss Crissinger, "Etta"; Mr. Knappenberger, "G. T. Warren"; Mr. Tway, "Geoffrey Nichols."

GOING HOME

Stand on the street corner at the close of day and watch the street cars, automobiles, and other conveyances carrying hundreds of Marion people . . . where?

TO THEIR HOMES

They may be tired and weary from the day's toil . . . but on their faces are smiles of content. They are going home.

To the one place on earth where they are sheltered from life's tribulations.

Would they give up their homes? Never!

And this is the kind of collateral that is behind the money you leave at the Marion; first mortgage liens on carefully appraised realty . . . . Homes.

No wonder, then, that for over 42 years this institution has kept the savings of Marion people safely.

The Marion is always at your service.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, April 10

A DAY of disagreeable and disastrous occurrences is forecast from the predominant place of the major malefics in today's horoscope. It will be difficult to make much progress under the impediments, limitations and disappointments of Saturn conjunction Luna, and the moon's opposition to Mars increases the probability of destructive or perilous conditions, incited by personal impetuosity, turbulence and passionate indulgences.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which all may depend upon their own personal discretion, poise and deliberate control of disagreeable and hazardous situations. This embraces the probability of physical violence or alarm. Resolution, self-control and diplomacy may bridge over precarious conditions. A child born on this day should be given a liberal education and early discipline, as it may be inclined to be impetuous.

CAMELS are wrapped Only in MOISTURE-PROOF Cellophane

Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the factory freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unfailing guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

Factory-fresh Camels are air-sealed in the new Sanitary Package which keeps the dust and germs out and keeps the flavor in.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS

Artificial heat in homes and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

The police of Vancouver, British Columbia, suspect the existence there of a "murder syndicate." Can it be that Vancouver is becoming Americanized?

Our idea of nothing particularly startling is the announcement that a Republican was elected to the United States senate, Tuesday, in Vermont, even though he is a dry and his opponent is a wet. Vermont is wedded to Republicanism.

Georgia boasts a citizen, seventy-three years of age, who has never had a haircut or a shave, worn a hat, been inside a school house, church or court, used tobacco in any form or tasted liquor or coffee. Wouldn't you naturally think Georgia would have concealed the fact that it had such a citizen?

"One Hundred Milwaukee Teachers Visit Cultural Chicago," reads a headline over a story in a Chicago paper. We assume the itinerary of the Milwaukeeans included Cicero, that they might have opportunity to study the art of gunplay.

One woman being considered for dean of women in the University of Oklahoma told Governor Murray that, if she is selected for the place, she will use a shingle on the co-eds to make them behave. Let's hope she gets the place. The great cause of education can stand a little uplifting along that line.

According to a Toledo dispatch, the National Exchange club has launched a publicity campaign with the slogan, "Better Times Are Here." It's a fact that the signs really point that way, but there is still some ground for a campaign looking to improvement.

In reply to the Republican national committee's attack on New York City, Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national committee, asks: "How about Chicago?" The sins of one community, no more than the sins of one man, can not be justified by pointing to the sins of another, but in the present case both parties would be wise to come to appreciation of the fact that silence is golden.

The new 42,500-ton Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Britain, said to be the very latest word in transatlantic liners, is being given her sea tests prior to making her maiden voyage. It is evident that Atlantic shipping lines are not of the belief that the recession in the returns from ocean transportation is to be permanent. The building of big and magnificent new liners by all of them is refutation of such a view as that.

Redistricting of Ohio Imperative.

No one expected the state assembly to display any especial promptness in redistricting Ohio to give the state the added representation it has earned since house membership was last apportioned, so no one is surprised at the present muddled state of the problem as adjournment approaches. The chances are becoming greater every day that the assembly will adjourn without having performed its duty. In that event, two congressmen-at-large would be elected, despite the federal provision that "representatives to congress shall be elected by districts composed of a contiguous and compact territory, and containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants." There is, accordingly, some doubt that the house of representatives would accept them.

Senator Marshall, of Cleveland, declared on the floor of the Ohio senate Monday night: "I am not so much concerned as to whether congressmen are Democrats or Republicans, but I am concerned in seeing that the people have proper representation in congress and that all districts are erected on the basis of their population alone and not on political considerations."

The redistricting problem would be half solved, at least, if a working majority in the assembly could be converted to the same sane view of the matter. The plain fact is the state must redistrict its territory to make twenty-four instead of twenty-two districts, which will remain long after the present school of politicians has been disbanded by defeat or death. Every attempt to balk a fair proposal for personal or narrow political reasons is an attempt to perpetrate injustice on the state.

It is not reasonable to suppose that any proposal will be received with unanimous favor, nor is it likely that any plan could escape without charges of "gerrymandering," that loosely defined and doubtful political sin. Each proposal offered has certain good points, however, and it is up to the Republican majority in the assembly to ride down unreasonable opposition and assemble the best plan possible. Redistricting is not a problem involving local benefits—it is a problem concerning the entire state. If the assembly, failing to perceive this, does not perform its proper function it will be discredited greatly.

Regarding Investments.

It is a well-recognized fact that in almost all lines of business, if not in all, there are periods of dullness and periods of more than normal activity. Seemingly there is greater local activity at present in securities, particularly in bonds, than has been manifested for some time in the past. Such being the case, it may be well to repeat the substance of a short talk bearing on the purchasing of securities recently broadcasted by an eastern financier.

Remember, in buying stocks or bonds for investment, he said by way of advice, that it isn't always the security which promises the greatest return which is the best. A security which promises more than the ordinary run of securities of its class may well be held an object for suspicion. In the same way, a stock which suddenly begins to yield an abnormal return should be held subject to question. The return which it has shown may have been justified. On the other hand, the return may not have been honestly made, the purpose behind it having been stock selling. The law is supposed to protect the public in this regard, but those to whom the execution of the law is entrusted are sometimes remiss.

The man of wealth can afford to speculate occasionally, because he can afford to lose, but the man of modest means can not afford to jeopardize his money in speculation. If he buys a security, it should be of the highest quality with an established record of paying a normal return.

Beyond all question there is merit in this advice to potential investors. The great trouble is that many are inclined to invest first and later on seek advice as to the worth of their investment. As safe a course as any for the man, who seeks a security investment or is offered a stock or bond with which he is not familiar, is to seek the advice of some one in whom he has absolute faith and who is in position and qualified to advise him in financial matters. There is probably not a citizen who hasn't such a friend or acquaintance, or doesn't know of one in whom he can place trust, to whom he may go for advice and be well repaid for the time and effort thus expended. Whether that advice be to place his money in some financial institution or invest it in some security of established worth, it should prove profitable.

Pola Negri, Lois Wilson, Doris Kenyon, Dolores Costello, Enid Bennett, Eleanor Boardman, Louise Brooks and Greta Nissen, silent film stars, have signed contracts to appear in the talkies. All of which goes to show that the stars in the field of athletics are not the only ones capable of staging comebacks.

"For one," says Mrs. Henry L. Sherman, "I do not want my choice of recreation to be left to postmasters, customs inspectors or societies for the suppression of vice." We haven't the slightest idea for what particular exotic work Mrs. Sherman is hankering, but let her go to it. She probably has attained an age when her literary taste should be her own concern.

The British battle cruiser, Tiger, which cost $10,000,000, has arrived at Deveonport, England, where it is to be scrapped. The British cables say the Tiger is yet good for many years of service, but that may be taken with a grain of salt. It's not Britain's way to scrap anything good for years of service.

The government of Holland has hired a "rainmaker" to produce sunshine. The Dutch probably labor under the belief that he can turn the trick by coppering his rainmaking bets to lose.

One of the larger accident insurance companies announces that more than 32,500 persons were killed by automobiles last year and 962,000 injured. Why all this worry over the possible death toll of future wars?

An American newspaper writer over in Russia asserts that but one per cent. of the 160,000,000 people of that land are communists and thus members of the ruling element. That's not wholly in line with what most people would call the spirit of equality.

It's seldom one is able to come upon a paper, these days, without noting the selection of a new "beauty" queen. It's significant that few cities or villages, if any, have in recent years been selecting any "cooking" queens.

The two convicts, who confessed to responsibility for the Ohio penitentiary fire which caused the deaths of 320 prisoners and who asked that they be executed, evidently aren't so ready to shuffle off this mortal coil as they indicated. At any rate, they entered "not guilty" pleas to the charge of having fired the prison.

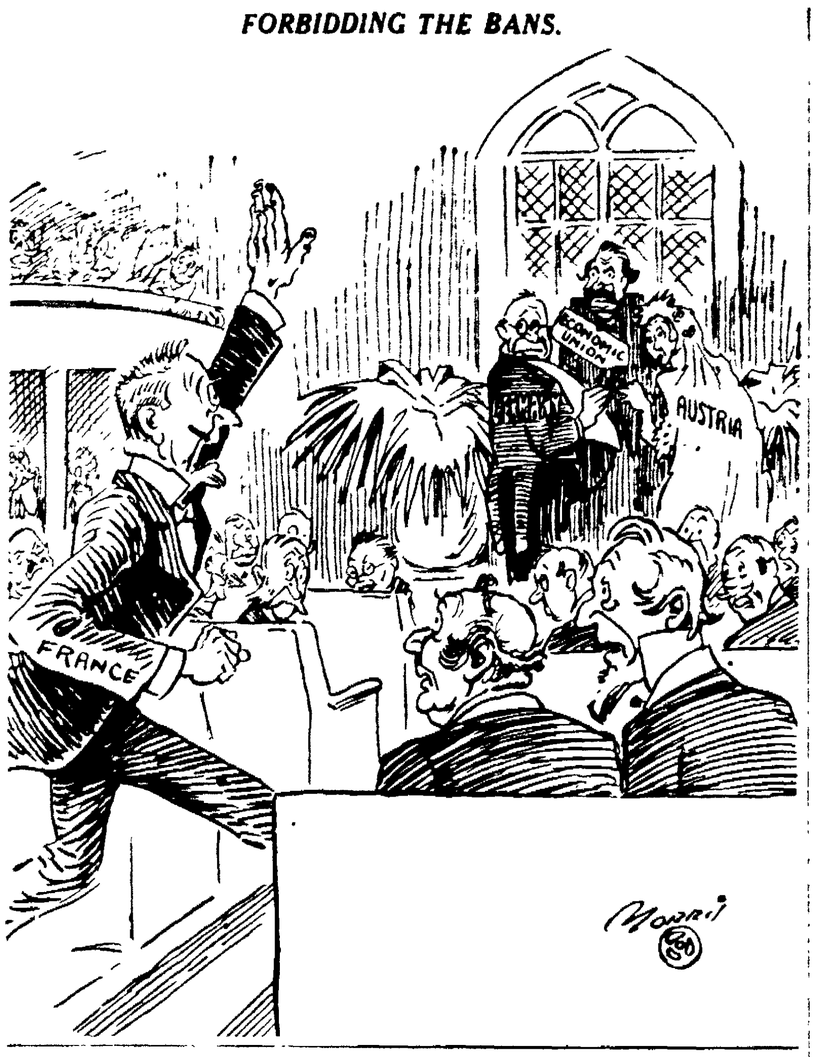
J. Brooks Atkinson remarks that "women are probably no more beautiful than they were a quarter century ago; they only look so." Why couldnt he have said that the difference is that today they are more generous in revealing their charms?

The former manager and caretaker of a cemetery at Guadaloupe, Mexico, has confessed the stealing of hundreds of tombstones, which he sold to a marble cutter, who dressed them down and resold them. Yet we are inclined at times to question the resourcefulness and initiative of our neighbors to the south of the Rio Grande.

Mrs. Bertrand Russell, wife of Earl Russell, of Great Britain, and daughter of the late Sir Frederick Black, insists on being addressed as Mrs. Russell rather than Countess. And why not? There are a lot of countesses who are mighty small potatoes and few in the hill but only one Mrs. Russell, wife of the famous philosopher and mathematician.

Four hold-up men captured after a pistol battle with detectives in which two of the robbers were wounded, two men killed in a pistol duel, two armed youths captured after they were balked in an attempted hold-up by a policeman and his wife, the policeman being wounded by the youths, and two youths arrested while trying to sell at an insignificant fraction of its worth a $25,000 diamond ring are among the high lights of the criminal annals of one day recently in New York City. Take it from us, New York is getting to be a right lively little town.

FORBIDDING THE BANS.



Editorial Opinion.

THE NICARAGUAN CANAL.

Two new factors lately have come to bear on the question of a canal across Nicaragua. The naval maneuvers at the Panama canal supposedly have thrown some light on the ability of the navy to defend the existing canal. And the earthquake at Managua raises the question of the possible effect of other 'quakes on a canal built in that region.

As for the naval maneuvers, little has been made public respecting the findings of the officers in charge. Naturally, this is not information that should be broadcast. It was made clear, however, that the Panama canal is vulnerable, and that an alternative route from Atlantic to Pacific is desirable purely from the standpoint of naval strategy.

Although the quake in Nicaragua has been cited as an objection to the new canal, the better view appears to disregard this danger. The Managua quake was scarcely felt fifty miles from the city, and had almost no effect outside the immediate environs of the town.

Still more pertinent, Panama has experienced more earth shocks in the last few centuries than has Nicaragua. If quakes are likely to destroy canals, the Panama canal is in greater danger than would be a canal across Nicaragua, most of its course following a river and a lake. Two canals would divide the risk and reduce to a negligible point the danger of having the two main units of our navy isolated.

There is an effort also to promote the St. Lawrence seaway as a rival of the Nicaraguan canal now being surveyed. But it is difficult to see how these are in any sense rivals. Their purposes are wholly different, the interests affected are different and the negotiation are being conducted separately. The St. Lawrence project is purely commercial, while the Nicaraguan route is both strategic and commercial. Each deserves consideration on its merits, without any element of rivalry. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

CURRENT EVENTS.

If current events of the world are so popular, why not current events of the neighborhood? They might read something like this:

The downfall of the Brown government was imminent today when Mr. Brown was defeated on a vote of lack of confidence as the result of having failed for three days in succession to bring home the candles. The opposition, however, later withdrew its vote in order to allow Mr. Brown one more day in which to make good.

Strained relations continue between the Smith and Jones households. Failure of the Smiths to include the Joneses in an entertainment last evening was interpreted in Jones circles as being deliberately unfriendly. A special envoy of the Smiths, however, is understood to have made satisfactory explanations, pointing out that the Smiths were not giving a party but just having a few friends in most informally.

The automobile limitation conference, including representatives of the Smiths, the Browns, and the Joneses, continues. The Smiths offer the suggestion that a new four-cylinder car should be considered as the equivalent of a used six-cylinder car. Other delegates have requested time to study the proposal.

The financial crisis of the Whites continues to give concern. Mr. White holds the opinion that ultimate solution lies in a system of longer hours and less money, while Mrs. White inclines to the belief that buying on a large scale at this time will at least give an appearance of prosperity which may lift the neighborhood-wide depression. Mr. White is said to be contemplating a moratorium. This probably will meet with opposition from the doctor, the butcher, and other creditor neighbors.

The insurrection in the Green household, according to last reports, has been suppressed. Little Johnny has consented to go to bed and also offered an apology to mother on condition of being granted an amnesty.

The League of Neighbors, which meets shortly, has on its schedule such important questions as rice pudding control, contract bridge curfew at 11:30 p. m., coordination of party lines, and the suppression of traffic in measles. Its action is awaited with interest.—Baltimore Sun.

Carelessness May Cause Lockjaw.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"Tetanus," or "lockjaw," as it is commonly called, is a disease produced by a certain type of bacteria. It is a germ found in the earth and in putrefying materials. In accidents where the broken surface of the skin is exposed and these particular bacteria enter the wound, we face the dangers of lockjaw.

At one time this disease was very common. Many of the accidents of the July 4 celebrations ended in tetanus. Due to the efforts of the health officials everywhere and the work of the American Medical association, in their program against the giant firecrackers and fireworks, these accidents have greatly decreased. Consequently, the prevalence of lockjaw is much less.

The disease has been controlled, too, by the use of "tetanus anti-toxin." The use of this neutralizing agent as a matter of routine treatment in all accident rooms of general hospitals and by private physicians, has done marvelous things in reducing the evil effects of such accidents. Even though the wounds may have been exposed to the tetanus bacteria, their fatal effects are destroyed by the treatment.

Lockjaw results from an injury often of a most trifling character. It is particularly likely to follow in lacerations which have been contaminated by dirt, splinters and clothing. On this account, it is always best to receive the anti-toxin injection immediately after the injury has occurred.

The disease may occur at any time from one day to four weeks after the accident. The first symptom is that of a slight stiffness in the neck or a feeling of tightness in the jaws. There is difficulty in chewing food and in talking.

Gradually the muscles of the face are involved in a spasm. This produces the condition spoken of as lockjaw. The jaws are set.

The course from then on is very rapid. Unfortunately, in a neglected case, the result is usually fatal.

All wounds should be thoroughly cleansed and swabbed with an antiseptic solution. One of the best is a three per cent. solution of iodine. Where dirt from the streets has entered the wound or fragments of clothing, they must be removed, of course. If pus infection has taken place an incision of the wound is advisable.

Neglect in receiving tetanus anti-toxin is inexcusable. The value of tetanus anti-toxin depends very largely upon its early use.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Work of a Prehistoric Artist.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

There is an interesting specimen of the handwork of the prehistoric Ohioans on a great sandstone rock that looms up above the surface of the ground near the base of a hillside five miles southeast of McConnellsville, the seat of Morgan county. It lies on the E. M. Sherwood farm, and until a few years ago was not known to have the importance that now attaches to it.

The rock lies beyond the line of glaciation, and is not granitic in composition, so it was not brought to its resting place upon a glacier, but belongs to the sandstone measures that are near the surface in that region and crop out here and there. But it is of enormous size and occupies a commanding position.

The portion of the rock that is exposed measures twenty feet in its greatest extent at the ground surface and its highest point is about ten feet above the surface. As there is no way of ascertaining the depth to which it extends under ground its total volume can not be estimated.

From the top of the rock a fine view out over the level fields of the Sherwood farm and beyond is to be obtained. From this and the fact that various figures appear carved upon the surface of the rock, local people have given it the name of "Observation" rock and "Council" rock, as they have imagined it used for these purposes by residents of the locality in prehistoric days.

The figures are of animals, and no little ability in drawing is shown in the work. No attempt has been made to guess their meaning. There is a figure of a turtle, and one of a fish, both swimming, a deer in full flight, an animal which may have been intended for either a fox or a wolf, but which does not look very much like either.

The lines were probably cut with flint into the softer sandstone, and since weathering has taken place in the bottom of the grooves keeping pace with that on the surface, the pictures are still quite discernible.

Omar Khayyam, Mathematician.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Contemporary critics are coming more and more to discover and recognize the relation between science and art. "Poetry and Mathematics" is the title of a recent work by Scott Buchanan. There is surely nothing new in this. For Omar Khayyam, the "Tent Maker," author of the famous 'Algebra' as well as of the Rubaiyat is now regarded as one of the world's great poets. A huge literature has grown about him in recent times, dating from Fitzgerald's first installment of his English paraphrase as far back as 1859. There is a world cult of Omar Khayyam as a poet. There have been many and able translations of his quatrains, together with a very considerable literature of criticism.

On the other hand, Omar Khayyam was a mathematician of real eminence. Sarton, in his monumental 'Introduction to the History of Science,' calls him 'one of the greatest mathematicians of mediaeval times.' He was not only poet and mathematician, but also an astronomer, who made historic contributions to the history of the calendar.

His name is a considerable one in more sense than one. Abu-Z-Fath Umar ibn Ibrahim al-Khayyam, Ghiyath al-din. He was born in or near Nishabur in the interval from 1038 to 1048, and died there in 1123-24. His most famous work is his 'Algebra,' a word derived from 'al gibr wal mukhabala,' the title of every Saracen work on the subject since the time of Abu Jafar Muhammed ibn Musa al-Khwarizmi, about 825 A. D., who was long supposed to have invented the subject. We now know that this work is simply a translation of the 'Arithmetic' of Diophantus of Alexandria, about 275 A. D.

Omar Khayyam's "Algebra" is notable in several respects. He got along without symbols, using words instead. Thus instead of the equation x3 plus 5x2 equals 3x plus 4, he would say, "a cube and five squares are equal to three roots and a number four." He gives both algebraic and geometric solutions of the quadratic equation. He solves equation by means of the intersections of conic sections. Unfortunately he carelessly neglected to employ both branches of the hyperbola in his construction. He did not consider negative roots at all; and the failure to use both branches of the hyperbola sometimes caused him to miss one of the positive roots.

Omar did not believe that cubic equations could be solved by calculation, but thought we must rely upon intersecting conics to furnish solutions. He classified equations, not on the basis of degree, which began as late as the end of the sixteenth century, but according to their complexity. On this basis, Omar recognizes thirteen different forms of the cubic equation. Furthermore, he employed the binomial theorem with positive integral exponents. Omar also solved an interesting quartic equation, the solution being identical with the problem of constructing an equilateral trapezoid whose base and sides are of the same given length and whose area is given.

In 1074-75 the Sultan Jalal aldin called Omar to the new observatory of Ray to reform the old Persian calendar, viz., thirty times twelve days plus five days. Omar's calendar was one-third more accurate than the calendar we use today! According to modern interpretation, there were eight intercalary days in thirty-three years. The average length of Omar's solar year was 365 days, five hours, forty-nine minutes and 5.45 seconds. William Edward Story calls Omar Khayyam the greatest of the Saracen mathematicians.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 9.—Metropolitan dramatic critics have been pelted with a number of swinging volleys this year. Ethel Barrymore, a temperamental pet, let go a double-barrage. And the fiery Richard Bennett, of course takes them for a ride in every other speech.

Channing Pollock in a recent outburst complained: "The only person who loves a critic is his mother and she loves him because of an animal instinct." A number of disappointed playwrights and players are frequently hurling the critics. It is a Rialto diversion.

As a matter of truth the leading dramatic critics are eminently tolerant and without exception fair. I sat with them at every opening night for a season and was always amazed the next morning at their studious consideration for every one concerned.

One or two salt their critiques with venom and seem querulously annoyed that performers are allowed to live, but they are the critics' show-offs and are not considered seriously. Sarcasm is the most effortless form of writing and is never constructive.

The reviewer who indulges such a cardinal smartness is shooting from ambush. To say the least, he is a literary coward. For those who are the targets have no come-back. They must take it on the chin. Incidentally, there is no record of a personal encounter between actor and critic in New York.

Considering that dramatic critics on morning papers have little more than a half hour at the most to sum up a play, it is remarkable how extraordinarily well they do it. Seldom are they permitted to see an entire play. They generally scurry out in the middle of the closing act.

There are stories that critics go into a huddle between acts and exchange views. Critics are not particularly "pally." They are thrown together in such nightly frequency that they grew rather tired of looking at one another. In the theater they are known as the "Death Watch."

Before departing on his world tour, Robert L. Ripley invited his friends to a dinner. In each invitation was a card. "Please present this for spiritual reasons."

* * *

The term impresario invariably conjures in my mind the picture of a fussy little man sporting a silk hat and a pointed beard and with a pronounced foreign accent. One sent up his card today. He was fat, florid and Irish and the only person outside of fiction I ever heard say "Bejabbers."

* * *

And the expletive "By Golly!" is also no longer heard. It was a favorite in the "Gay Nineties." And Weber and Fields gave it a new life in their stage skits. Come to think it has been a long time since I have heard grandpa's favorite: "Oh, foot!"

* * *

So far gastronomical galavantings in New York have failed to flush out a satisfying dish of what was known out in the briar patches as "wet hash." It was a soupy concoction made of chopped up meat, potatoes and generously spiced with onions. Brought on steaming it was an Epicurean epic. The Manhattan version is a mess—an olio podrida of left overs in huge lumps tasting like the sour end of a mop touched up with kerosene. Hash in New York is looked upon as a lowly dish of the waterfronts. As a matter of fact it is one of America's grandest food offerings. I could wolf a hatful right now—two hours after a whopping breakfast.

As a throw back to depot short-order eating days I often inspire frowns among elegant waiters by asking for a "side dish" of this and that. Vegetables of all sorts to me are "side dishes."

* * *

I remain somewhat like Charlie Murray when he was touring the tanks in "Zeb, the Clodhopper." He was in the play dining with a New York swell. At the finish of the meal the swell said to the waiter: "Bring me a demi-tasse." As the waiter departed Murray cried: "Kill me one, too. And bring me a crock of coffee."—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

City of Pleasure.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The first thing that impresses you as you steam into Havana's charming harbor is grim old Morro castle which looks down upon you from its rocky elevation. Morro castle is the terrible old fort from which Cuban criminals in less happy days, were thrown to the sharks in the waters below by order of the stern Spanish governors of the island.

But almost as soon as you land and are carried in a spotless automobile through Havana's spick-and-span streets you forget the castle. For this is a city of pleasure, of beauty and laughter.

The broad boulevards, the picturesque dressed men and women, the ease and the languor that is in Havana's very air seems to creep into you. Here, you feel, is a place to relax, to make merry, to forget that there is a tomorrow or that there are such things as trouble and worry and bills that must be paid.

Let us first go to the Havana-American Jockey club. This famous resort lies nine miles out of Havana. It is a delightful drive along the sea's edge. The course is a gem, scenically and architecturally. There are palms and all sorts of flowers. The grandstand is of stone and the clubhouse is a gorgeous building. You can place a bet on your favorite horse through the pari-mutuel machines.

After the races the crowd repairs to the club house for refreshments and some further wooing of Dame Fortune. There are roulette and dice tables and many other devices for parting both fools and wise men from their money.

At night, the thrill-seekers invariably visit the National casino, easily the greatest gambling place on this side of the world. But one does not have to gamble, the casino is much more than a white marble monument to the great god, Luck. There is dancing, dining and entertainment in rooms adjoining the gambling chambers.

However, Havana's attractions scarcely begin with the Jockey club and the casino.

"What persuaded you to announce that you were through with politics?"

"I like a bridge partner who isn't gabby all the time."

"Same here, if she isn't mentally dumb as well as physically."

"My husband and I attend to our budget every evening. It is more economical."

"How so, dear?"

"By the time we get it balanced, it is too late to go anywhere."

* * *

"Are the Blanks getting along any better than they used to?"

"Worse. They have twin pews in church now."

Mr. Nagger—"But I didn't intend to be. I talked to me like my wife does, and I forgot myself and answered, 'Yes, my dear.'"

When You
CAN'T QUIT

A headache is often the sign of fatigue. When temples throb it's time to rest. If you can't stop work, you can stop the pain. Bayer Aspirin will do it, every time. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and carry-on—in comfort.

Don't work with nerves on edge or try all day to forget a nagging pain that aspirin could end in a jiffy! Genuine aspirin can't harm you; just be sure it's Bayer.

In every package of Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for headaches, colds, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. Carry these tablets with you, and be prepared. To block a sudden cold on the street-car; quiet a grumbling tooth at the office; relieve a headache in the theatre; spare you a sleepless night when nerves are "jumping."

And no modern girl needs "time out" for the time of month! Bayer Aspirin is an absolute antidote for periodic pain.

Bayer-Tablets of Aspirin — Genuine

Take Bayer Aspirin for any ache or pain, and take enough to end it. It can't depress the heart. That is medical opinion. That is why it is only sensible to insist on the genuine tablets that bear the Bayer cross. The pocket tin is a convenient size. The bottle of 100 tablets is most economical to buy.

WOMAN HELD FOR SLAYING

Pennsylvania Murder Suspect Also Questioned in Connection with Cult.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 9—A frail little woman sat in a cell in the county jail here today waiting for detectives to ask her further questions concerning a "love cult' composed of former school teachers," and the slaying of Miss Minnie E. Dilley, 76, found dead at Forty Fort, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., last week.

Mrs. Frances Thompson, 29, former Pittsburgh teacher, daughter of a former minister, was arrested last night. Detectives said she told them the Forty Fort spinster wanted her husband to become head of a "love cult," but insisted she knew nothing of the slaying.

Investigators said Mrs. Thompson had written the aged woman letters in which she accused Miss Dilley of having "a strange influence" over her husband.

The husband, Carl Thompson, 33, was arrested a short time before Mrs. Thompson was taken into custody. Later he was released. Thompson said his wife had been away from home from Wednesday of last week until Saturday, but that he did not know where she had been.

Detectives said they were not satisfied with Mrs. Thompson's description of her movements during that time. She said she had just "traveled around."

Miss Dilley was found dead in her home. Her head was crushed and her throat slashed.

N.Y. Police Hold Fugitive Confidence Man for Ohio; Escaped in 1927.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., April 9—Ending a nation-wide search of two and a half years, authorities today moved to return George J. J. Mackay, smiling confidence man under arrest in New York, to Ohio, to serve a seven-year prison term for embezzlement.

Mackay, arrested under the name of John G. Reynolds, by New York police Saturday, was identified yesterday by fingerprints and photographs. He had been wanted since November 1927, when he jumped his $53,000 bond here after the United States supreme court upheld his conviction of embezzlement.

Prosecutor Ray T. Miller said Mackay would be sent to the Ohio penitentiary immediately although other embezzlement cases are still pending against him. Extradition papers have been taken out.

EARTHQUAKE NEWS, frequent over the world, comes today from Santiago, Chile, and the distressed city of Managua, Nicaragua.

Miss Cristabel Pankhurst, daughter of the late suffragette leader, believes that our earthquakes and other disasters foretell the second coming of the Savior. She has written a book telling how and why the time of the second advent has arrived. She predicts that this time the Lord will come in power and glory, not in humility, and will rule with a rod of iron very soon.

PASSAGE OF MAJOR LABOR BILL UNLIKELY

House Calendar Committee Declines To Approve "Yellow Dog" Measure.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—Organized labor, after witnessing five victories in the senate yesterday, found itself stalemated on its major victory in the house of representatives today.

Prospects for obtaining house consideration of the "yellow-dog" contract bill, which the senate passed by a vote of 25 to 1, are dim and its advocates have virtually given up hope of its passage.

Two years ago, the measure was pursuing virtually the same course as today and its friends were doomed to disappointment as the house calendar committee refused to send it to the floor for consideration during the final hours of the session.

This year, the measure passed by the senate, has not yet reached the calendar committee and because Friday is the last legislative day before recess when all measures die automatically, it probably never will get there.

Other victories scored by labor in the senate were the adoption of the joint resolution by Senator James A. Reynolds, Democrat of Cleveland, authorizing the governor to appoint a commission to study the subject of unemployment insurance and report to the next assembly; passage of the Nickels bill requiring political subdivisions to keep that section of the workmen's compensation fund solvent, and passage of the Roberts bill requiring payment of a "fair wage" to employes on public works.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

public donations from up home they could get $250,000, it would relieve the situation as to food and get some roofs to cover these people. Now what they are afraid of is the rainy season which starts in just a few weeks. Lord help you if you have no cover when it starts.

Goodness knows you generous folks have been asked till you are ragged but honest, if you saw it you would dig again. I have finally found somebody poorer than a southern cotton renter-farmer. Our government can't make the loan for food; at least it wouldn't for our own so it just falls where everything else does—on the generosity and goodness of the American people.

If you saw as I did this morning, twenty-five hundred mothers with babies in their arms go by and get their ration of milk, you would say there was some poor devil that needed it worse than you do. We promised to get the marines out of here by June 1 and if we could get this sum and get things straightened out, we can keep our promise, but we can't leave 'em in this shape.

Now, whether you believe the marines should be here or not, they have been a Godsend during the last week. They have done some heroic work but personally I don't think it's worth leaving 'em down here just for the sake of another earthquake. We may dig a canal here some day, but we don't have to guard the place where we are going to dig. Nobody is going to sneak in and dig it while we are away.

Send your donations to Managua, Nicaragua, to American Red Cross in care of American Minister Hanna. It's worth all that just to get our boys back home.

Two were saved today by a parachute jump, patrolling a terrible country. Let's help put 'em on their feet, call it a day and all go home and tend to our own business.

Yours,

Will Rogers

ROGERS WELCOMED BY U. S. MARINES

American Humorist Given Enthusiastic Greeting on Arrival at Managua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 9—American marines, still occupied at the task of recovering bodies from the ruins of Managua and guarding lives and property, took time out today to play host to Will Rogers, who arrived by plane.

Rogers received an enthusiastic greeting from marines and Nicaraguans alike. He presented a $5,000 contribution to the Red Cross relief fund.

The humorist, after a tour of the devastated city, was housed in a tent next to that occupied by United States Minister Hanna and marine corps officers. His wisecracks acted as a tonic to those who have labored at rescue and relief work since the earthquake and fire destroyed Managua ten days ago.

Republicans Seek to Profit by Discord of Democrats

National Committeeman Flays Raskob Proposals in Radio Address; Appeals to South to Shift Party Allegiance.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 9 — The Republican party has begun a campaign interpreted as an effort to gain something from Democratic discord over the Raskob proposals.

In an attack on the program suggested for 1932 by the Democratic national committee chairman, Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, said last night the only concrete propositions offered by the opposing party had come from Raskob.

"Mr. Raskob," Lucas said in an appeal to the south over the Dixie network of the Columbia Broadcasting system, "makes the unique proposal that the solution of the economic problems now confronting the United States, and in which the south is vitally interested, may be solved by (1) repealing the federal anti-trust laws; and (2) offering every individual a drink.

"This is an entirely new school of political thought."

Lucas asserted continuing Republican tariff and other policies has aided development and prosperity of the south, adding:

"It's place, therefore, politically, is in the Republican party."

He mentioned differences of opinion in the Democratic party. The house Democratic caucus called for last February was abandoned, he said, because "they ascertained that in the event they held such a caucus they could not agree upon anything and would in all probability wind up in an open quarrel.

Meanwhile, southern Democratic leaders who announced they would seek to prevent convention approval of the Raskob platform suggestions were silent. Some of them, however, already had expressed vigorous opposition to the proposals, especially that calling for commitment in favor of a constitutional amendment giving states control of prohibition.

Ohio Disciple of Gandhi Sees Help for World in Doctrine

By International News Service.

KARACHI, India, April 9—Boyd Tucker, Wesleyan Methodist missionary from Mansfield, Ohio, who renounced the ways of the western world to become a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, believes that the doctrine of Gandhi is a solution for world problems.

Tucker, seated cross-legged Indian fashion on the bare mud floor of his hut in the Indian quarter of Karachi, today told International News Service how he became a follower of the wizened Indian Nationalist leader.

The former Methodist missionary, who was clad in a coarse homespun shirt and loin cloth, with a white Gandhi cap on his head, said that he first came in contact with Gandhi in 1927.

"I was greatly impressed by his teachings and ideas," Tucker said. "I followed him on several of his journeys and found that his doctrine was even penetrating into the capitalistic classes in India and spreading among ruling princes.

"The more I learned of his ideas, the more I became converted to his doctrine, and finally I decided to cast off my European clothes and adopt Gandhi's way of simple living, thus bridging the gap of east and west that was inside me.

"At the present time I am teaching in the Shantinekan (school) of Tagore, the Indian poet, at Bopur, Bengal."

His statement read: "Mr. Longworth served his fellow countrymen in state and nation for over 33 years—nearly the whole of his adult life. In his service he contributed greatly to the welfare of the American people. His happy character, his sterling honesty, his courage in public questions, endeared him and held the respect not alone of his myriad of friends, but of the country at large. His passing is a loss to the nation."

MUST CALL ELECTION

Special Vote Required to Fill Longworth Seat in Congress.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—A special election to fill the vacancy in the first Ohio congressional district caused by the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth today must be called by the governor under the Ohio statutes.

The Ohio law requires that the governor issue a proclamation for a special election, specifying the time for the election. The first district, from which Mr. Longworth served for many years is entirely in Cincinnati.

Governor White said he would look into the law on the procedure to be followed in a congressional vacancy. The law does not specify a time limit on when the special election shall be called.

WASHINGTON SHOCKED

Expression of Regret Come from Longworth Associates in Capital.

WASHINGTON, April 9—The death of Speaker Longworth came as a sudden blow today to official Washington.

Word spread quickly over the capital, where he had been known and liked for more than a quarter of a century. Expressions of regret were spontaneous.

Flags on the capitol were half-staffed 15 minutes after his death.

Sergeant-at-arms Rogers of the house said the last word from Mrs. Longworth mentioned Saturday as the day for the funeral.

The funeral committee will be named by Rogers and William Tyler Page, the House clerk, later.

President Hoover upon learning of the death of Speaker Longworth ordered Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, his military aide, to leave for Aiken at once by airplane to assist Mrs. Longworth in any way possible.

• • •

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—Governor George White ordered the flag atop the state capitol placed at half mast when he learned today of the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth. The flag will remain at half mast until after the funeral.

LAUNCH MOVE FOR HOSPITAL STAFF

Dr. H. K. Mouser Named Chief by Marion Academy of Medicine.

icine men, obstetricians, eye, ear, nose and throat men, a patheologist and a roentgenologist or an X-ray specialist.

These requirements are made to increase the efficiency of the care of the patient. Any hospital meeting these requirements is rated by the hospital committee of the American College of Surgeons.

96 Per Cent Recognized

The highest rating given by the college is one of approval or certification. Within the minimum requirements of the college when the staff is established, the hospital naturally will strive towards this highest rating.

In 1913 there were three per cent of the hospitals in North America entitled to recognition by the college. In 1930 this percentage had increased to 96 per cent.

Formation of the staff at City hospital has been the result of several months of effort on the part of Safety Director T. E. Sonnanstine and the Marion Academy of Medicine.

Various improvements have been made within the last few years to bring the institution nearer recognition by the college of surgeons. A year ago, a pathologist was employed and a laboratory was set up at the hospital. More recently, an X-ray machine was purchased.

SEES ADVANTAGES IN AUTOGYRO AIRPLANE

Amelia Earhart Believes "Windmill" Craft Will Aid in Bad Weather.

By The Associated Press

WILLOW GROVE, Pa., April 9—Amelia Earhart, who yesterday piloted an autogyro to an unofficial altitude of 19,000 feet, believes the "windmill" airplane points the way to eliminate a great deal of trouble aviators encounter in bad weather.

With Major Luke Christopher acting as official observer for the National Aeronautics association, the woman trans-Atlantic flier made two flights at the Pitcairn field to establish the "ceiling" for the craft. She carried with her a sealed barograph which was sent to Washington for official examination.

Using a standard Pitcairn autogyro with a 300-horsepower Wright whirlwind motor she reached an unofficial altitude of 18,500 feet on the first flight and 19,000 or more on the second. The flights were made in the presence of her husband, George Palmer Putnam, of New York, and about 1,000 others. She said she hoped to make another attempt later for a higher mark. She was aloft an hour and fifty minutes on the first trip and an hour and 45 minutes on the second.

She has purchased an autogyro for experimental purposes. She said that on the basis of the theoretical estimates the best altitude performance for this type of machine was about 20,000 feet.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, who acted as chairman of the meeting reported the movement has moved forward satisfactorily to date. More than 500 questionnaires have been returned to him since the movement was begun. He has reports of a better tone of cooperation and a more serious consideration of Marion's welfare by Marion groups and individuals since the civic questionnaires have been studied and answered, he said.

Questionnaires similar to those issued to representatives of Marion organizations and to businessmen in previous meetings at White Oaks farm were distributed last night. They are to be returned by April 22.

Marion county World war veterans who have not yet received checks for loans on their soldier bonuses can better understand the delay after reading a letter received by the local Red Cross from the regional office of the veterans' bureau at Cleveland, where most local claims are handled.

Checks are now being mailed at the rate of 1,200 a day. To date, 21,082 checks have been mailed from the Cleveland office. Checks now going out are sent to veterans whose applications were received March 4 and 5.

The regional office hopes to have its work up to date by April 30, the letter states. Since the rush prevents prompt mailing of checks at present, it is useless for veterans to write into the offices asking why they have not received checks.

Another Gibbons adventure that packs a thrill for everyone who drives a car!

They've always tempered steel..but

NOW SOHIO TEMPERS GASOLINE

by FLOYD GIBBONS

And just as heat rouses flashing new life in dead metal ..so this new heat-tempering process puts a new edge on motor fuel

HELLO EVERYBODY!

You know, it has been my experience that if you stand around long enough where people are working, somebody will come along sooner or later and shove a broom in your hand. I've had it happen to me so often, in so many different places, that it's got so I sort of expect it. But doggoned if those Sohio folks didn't knock me clean off my pins with what they sashayed up and handed me while I was getting the low-down on their new heat-tempered gasoline. It wasn't any broom, boys and girls. No, by jingo! It was a sword—a regular old snickersnee, edged up so sharp, that you could have shaved with it.

Sounds sort of goofy, doesn't it? Just the same, it's a fact. That sword was no optical illusion, no fake. It was the finest piece of steel that I have ever handled. You could bend the blade double and it would spring straight and true again the instant it was released. I did that several times—just dumbly obeying instructions—before I finally got the point.

Yes, sir, and it was the main point, too. The very point they have been trying to drill into my skull. The big point that distinguishes heat-tempered gasoline from all the other motor fuels the world has known up to now.

They had told me at least a hundred times that Sohio X-70 was heat-tempered gasoline, but that hadn't meant a thing to me. Far as I was concerned, it was just a slick-sounding phrase. It went in one ear and out the other. On the square, when they flashed that sword on me I half suspected they wished I'd do a Harry-Carry fall on it and cut myself out of the picture.

However, I stayed in the picture—and with the aid of that gleaming shibouk I sure got a lot better focus on Sohio X-70.

It was heat-tempering, they told me, that had given the sword that wonderful double-jointed quality. If it hadn't been heat-tempered—and right to a turn—its first bend would have been its last. It would have snapped. And the dickens of a lot of good it would have been on the battle-field, busting the first time its owner smote a smite with it.

In a general kind of a way, we all know that tempering improves steel. Well, just so, heat-tempering puts life and power into ordinary gasoline that turns it into a super fuel for automobiles. That was the discovery of the Sohio scientific researchers which now makes heat-tempered X-70 available to the Ohio motoring public.

Seems that it all boils down to a matter of molecules. Tempering changes the physical structure of steel—stirs up the molecules and lines them into new combinations. Heat does the trick with steel, and it does the same trick with gasoline.

Apply enough heat to gasoline—say one thousand degrees or more—and the hydrocarbon molecules that composed it go looping the loop all over the lot. In the course of the riot the atoms that make up the hydrocarbon molecules change partners, and in these new unions they yield an increased energy that was just a dream until Sohio's chemical sorcerers pulled their scoop with X-70.

Sixty years ago when John D. Rockefeller's first little one-lung refinery started up on the site of today's great Sohio plant, the boys who operated it wouldn't have recognized a molecule if they'd seen one. Of course, they never did see one. Even up to the present time, no man has ever seen a molecule; for molecules are so infinitesimally tiny that the most powerful modern microscopes cannot bring them into view. All the same, the whole art of refining—every development in that art—revolves around the molecule.

Crude petroleum as it comes out of the earth and into the refinery is a hodge-podge containing ingredients that range from gasoline clear down to asphalt. The earliest and simplest method of refining consisted of building a fire under a tank of crude, and trapping and condensing the vapors as they boiled off. Gasoline has the lowest boiling point of all the various ingredients and is the first of them to stew away from the crude. That—scientists know it now—is because it is made up of the lightest molecules.

Until the heat of the mass reaches four hundred and thirty-seven degrees, the molecules that waft off in vapor are gasoline molecules. The remaining oils each have their own range of boiling points, according to the weight of the molecules composing them. Kerosene follows gasoline in saying good-bye to home and mother, and steaming off into the condensing coils.

A lot of us who still manage to get around without using wheel-chairs can remember when the petroleum product in greatest demand was kerosene. In those days the gasoline that boiled off ahead of the kerosene was just so much waste. It was worse than waste from the pioneer refiner's point of view. Not only was there no commercial use for it, but it was a menace.

Sohio old-timers tell me of an early-day chore at the refinery that sounds mighty funny in this day and age. It was a boy's job, yet a doggone important one. At night—every night—the boy would go into the deserted refinery, open a valve, and let the day's accumulation of that dangerous and useless stuff called gasoline run off into the river. But that quaint custom had to be abandoned when boys downstream discovered they could set the river on fire by tossing in a match.

Then the automobile and the electric light came along, and the demand gradually and steadily shifted from kerosene to gasoline. Not many years passed before refiners were shedding tears over that spilled gasoline of the old days. Benzine-buggies had multiplied so rapidly on the road that it looked as if the supply of gasoline must run short. And it might have, if a method of getting a bigger gasoline yield from the crude hadn't been discovered.

That development—a process called "cracking"—came about 1910. Cracking is—hold your hat for this blast!—the "pyrogenic decomposition of petroleum hydrocarbons." In the process, the heavier oils left after the extraction of gasoline and kerosene were heated under pressure until their pot-bellied molecules broke up into smaller ones. It was just a process of making little ones out of big ones. When the "cracked" residue was reheated, the busted-up molecules vaporized at boiling points south of 437 degrees and condensed into gasoline.

It is an extension of that same "cracking" principle—a dramatic extension, involving heats and pressures whose very suggestion would have raised the hair of the original crackers—which is represented in Sohio X-70.

In X-70 those light gasoline molecules themselves are cracked. Driven into new combinations and alignments, they produce a fuel that burns at such a rate and in such a way that power is greatly increased and "knocking" becomes a thing of the past.

Incidentally, I've picked up some hefty dope on knocking that turns a lot of my cherished ideas inside out. But right now I'm busting the tape at the end of the track, and that will have to hold over for next week's broadcast. In the meantime—mind your molecules!

Floyd Gibbons

Standing on top of a cauldron of boiling oil, Floyd Gibbons hears about the first of many applications of heat used in the Sohio Heat-Tempering process.

"Hot as the hinges!" says Floyd as he takes a guarded look into the seething flames that add Heat-Tempering to those good Sohio gasolines.

"It even looks good—and, boy! it ought to," writes Gibbons as he draws off a flask of sparkling gasoline—fresh from the Heat-Tempering treatment.
